The Art District Co-Op

Project Overview

The Art District Co-Op is located in a redeveloped one story building and as its name hints, it offers a wide variety of different retail shops. The concept comes from the will of encouraging creativity and commerce "in an avant-garde market environment". No branded merchandises but rather a wide variety of goods and products ranging from clothing and art work to jewelry. The displayed products are all different and "one of a kind" as they look as if they were all made by hand by their creators. On another hand some of the clothes seem to be vintage clothing that have already been worn making them unique pieces. On the evenings and week-ends live performances are held at the back of the building with a stage especially made for those performances.

As for the interior design, this old brick building is remodeled with plaster on the walls, sandblasting the wood beam and posts while the existing concrete floor has been polished.

This store steps away from traditional retail and encourage customers to shop by themselves instead of using the e-commerce system. It stands as a place where people can spend the afternoon and discover new things while enjoying a unique atmosphere.
