1. Palais des enfants

Project Overview

Following its extensive renovation, the Grand Palais reopened in June 2025, introducing a new permanent children's space, Palais des enfants.

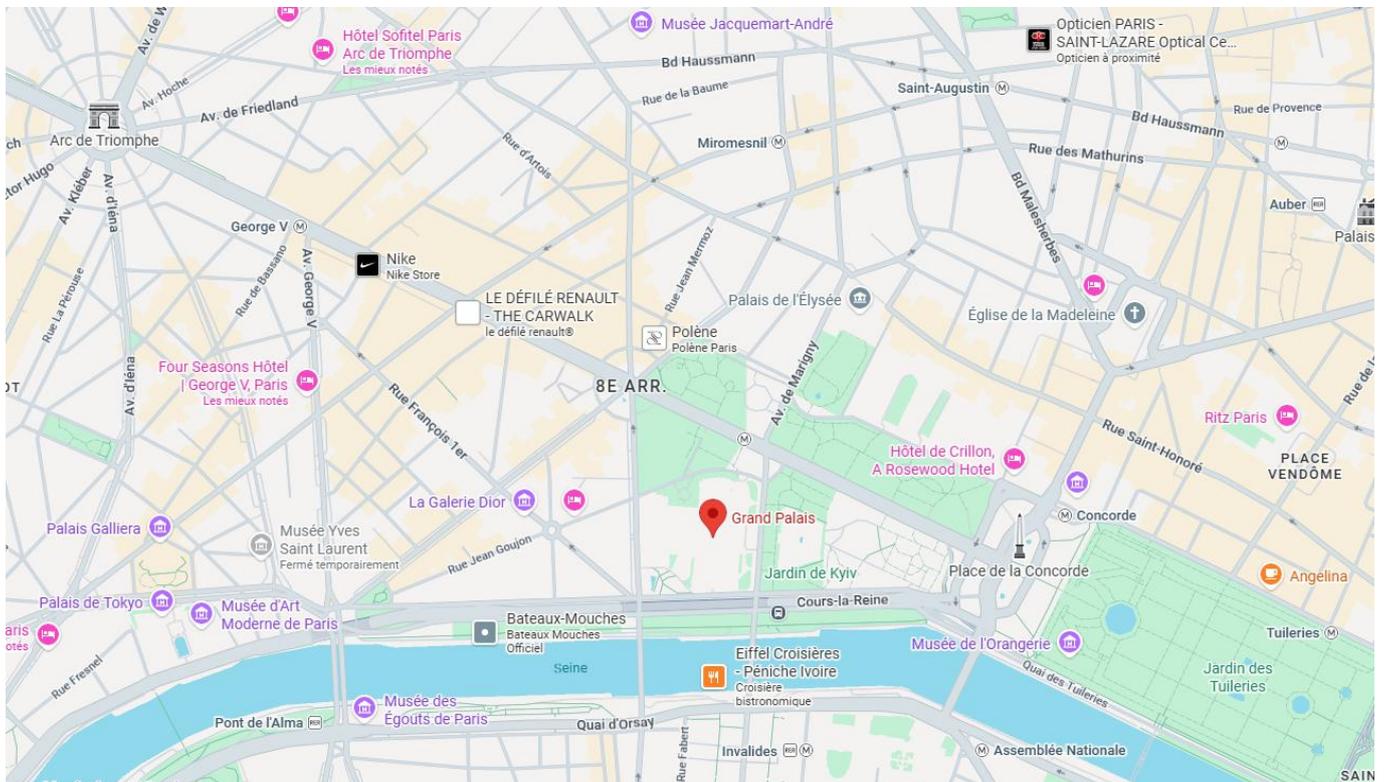

Located beneath the circular Rotonde d'Antin, this approximately 620-square-meter area offers interactive art-and-science experiences for children aged 2 to 10 and their guardians. A family lounge is open to all visitors, while Le Comptoir Jeux regularly hosts art-themed games and workshops where children and adults can learn together in an engaging way. Previously separated interior spaces have been unified, restoring the building's openness and fluid circulation across its atriums and circular halls. Enhanced barrier-free access and intuitive pathways further ensure comfort for all visitors.

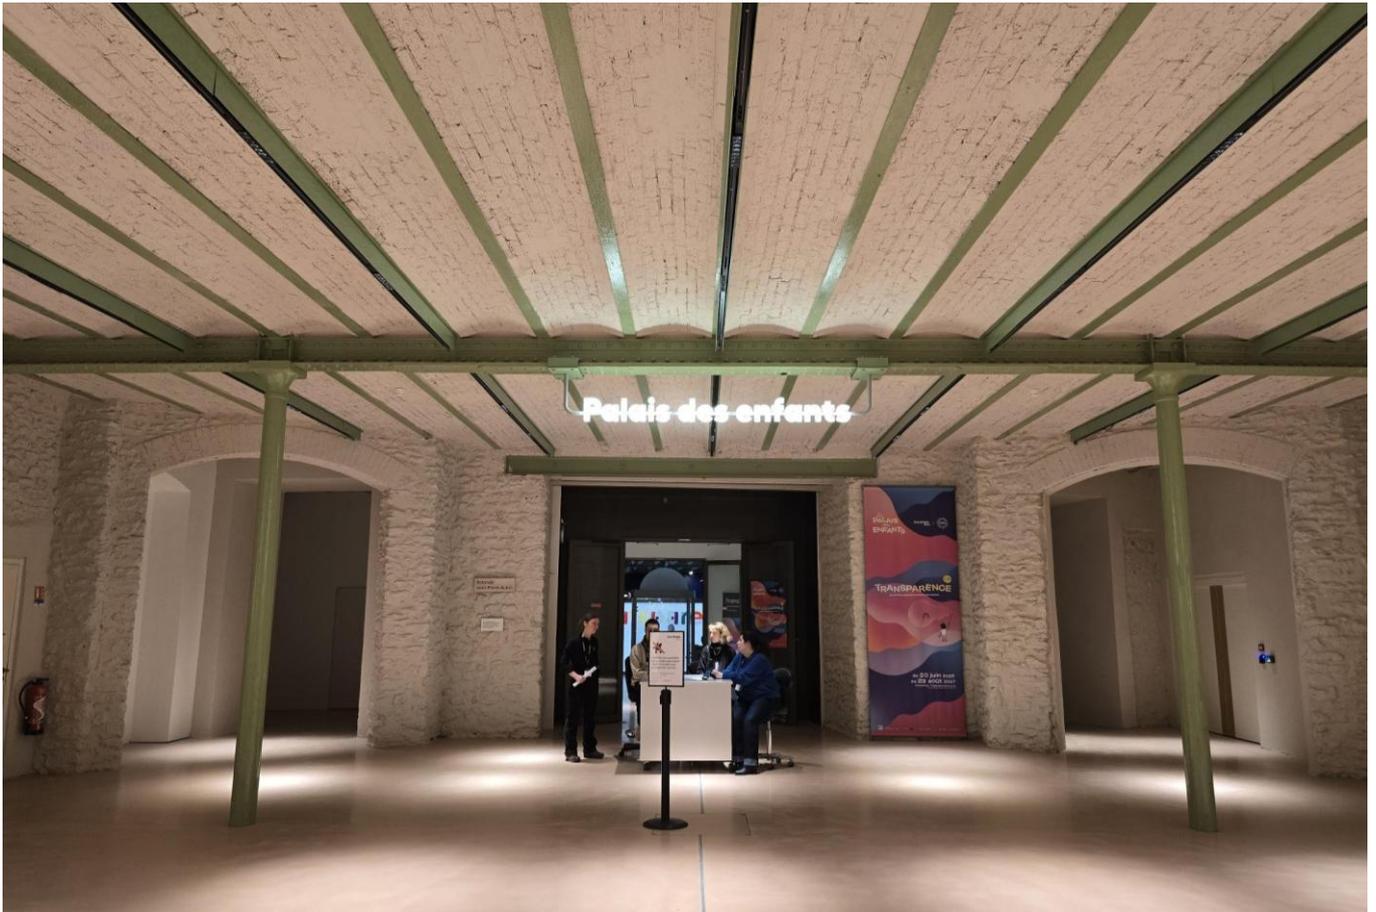

Today, the space functions as a hub for art, education, and social exchange—where visitors of every generation can experience light, space, and the joy of learning and creativity.

2. Maison Nespresso Marais

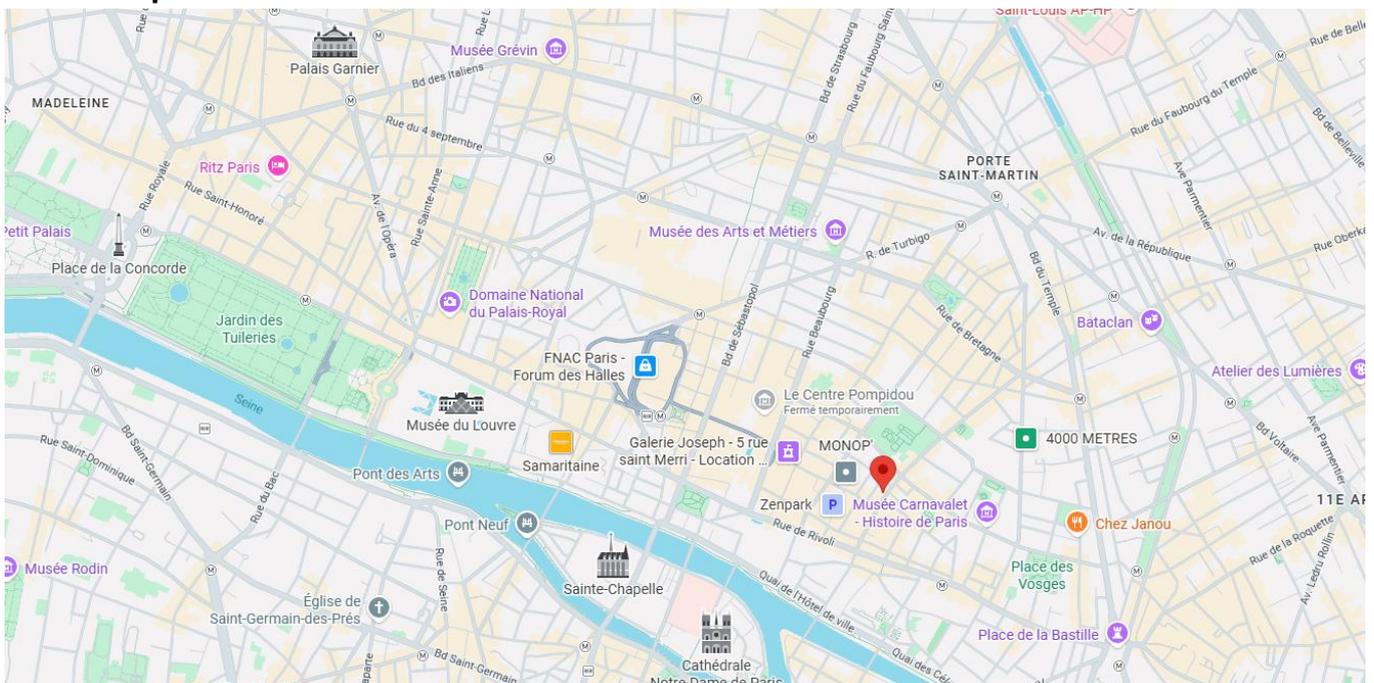

Project Overview

In October 2025, Maison Nespresso Marais, Nespresso's first concept store, opened in the Marais district of Paris, where history and contemporary culture intersect. Housed in the 17th-century Hôtel des Ambassadeurs de Hollande, the space blends heritage architecture with a modern, experience-driven design. The interior, designed by Paris-based Rudy Guénaire, evokes the elegance of 1930s Italian cafés, combining soft, sensual curves with rich material textures. Near the entrance, the "Cabinet des Merveilles" introduces visitors to the origins of coffee beans, roasting techniques, and terroir, offering an immersive gateway into coffee culture. At the heart of the store, "Le Café" serves freshly ground espresso, cappuccino, and signature drinks, alongside sweets created in collaboration with a pastry chef. Additional spaces include "La Cuisine," which explores new ways to enjoy coffee; "La Galerie," which showcases Nespresso's colorful world; and "Le Studio des Amis," dedicated to artistic and brand collaborations. Guided by the concept of "coffee culture to experience, not just drink," the store presents a new, immersive Nespresso journey.
